RACIAL EQUITY

A conversation about the systemic barriers facing people of color, and how we can and must dismantle them.

CONVERSATIONS THAT MATTER

HOST GUIDE

Thank you for your leadership in hosting a Racial Equity conversation.

YOUR ROLE AS HOST

As a host, your main role is setting a date and time for your virtual dinner, inviting folks along (friends, neighbors, colleagues or your community), and facilitating the conversation by following our simple conversation guide (don't worry, it's easy!).

Here are just a few things to keep in mind as a host:

- Keep track of your dinner on cividdinners.com/brookhaven-racial-equity
- During COVID-19 all Civic Dinners are virtual, but we promise the experience is just as powerful.
- While it's called a 'dinner,' you and your guests don't have to eat during the conversation or even have the Civic Dinner during a meal time.
- This Host Guide includes all you'll need to guide the conversation so you can sit back, relax and listen.
- These conversations are designed to be inclusive, and diversity of thought and background is encouraged. That said, whoever takes part is meant to be there.
- We encourage you to take screenshots of your dinner and share with @CivicDinners #CivicDinners
- After the dinner, Civic Dinners will follow up with guests with a short survey that encourages them to share their stories, ideas, and any commitments to further action.

Host Checklist

BEFORE YOUR VIRTUAL DINNER

Invite guests!

Who do you think would enjoy or benefit from this conversation? Think of friends, family, neighbors, colleagues and members of your community. We recommend inviting around 10 people (the goal is to have 4-8 guests but not everyone invited will attend and last minute cancellations may happen). Great ways to get the word out include posting on social media, texting the dinner link to friends or acquaintances, sending out an email, or asking your friends to invite their friends.

If you have decided to use your own virtual room it's a good idea to include helpful instructions on your dinner page. For example, if you're using Zoom, remind guests to download the Zoom app in advance. You can update your instructions on your dinner page at any time. (Just be sure not to have the Zoom link visible on the dinner page for privacy purposes.)

DURING YOUR VIRTUAL DINNER

Log in 10 minutes early to the virtual room.

Have this host guide visible on screen or printed out, especially the last two pages with the questions.

If you like, grab a drink or some snacks and settle in.

Welcome guests as they join.

Once everyone has joined, welcome them and explain the following helpful tips for a seamless virtual conversation (and/or post these tips into the chat):

1. Check to make sure your sound and video are working.
2. Update your name so that everyone knows how to address you properly.
3. Mute yourself if you are not the one speaking to help reduce background noise.
4. After you're finished speaking, call out the next speaker to avoid awkward pauses. If that person isn't quite ready they can say "pass".
5. Use the chat feature as a way to share resources, links, contact information or comment on what others are saying. It's a great way to feel connected to each other.
6. Stay present. Let's pretend we're around the dinner table. Do your best to stay fully engaged and not multitask during the conversation.

AT THE END OF YOUR CIVIC DINNER

Take a screenshot! Ask everyone if they're comfortable taking a photo and let those who aren't comfortable exit the meeting room first. Then tag us @CivicDinners — we love to see your smiling faces and hear your stories!

Encourage your guests to fill out the important survey in their inbox. It's quick! This survey helps us track all the ideas and actions that are mentioned.

Invite everyone to host their own conversation!

Host Facilitation Best Practices

Some of the tips below might not apply to your conversation, but we want you to feel extra prepared, so we have provided you with some simple facilitation tips to set you up for success!

GENERAL FACILITATION TIPS

How do you keep the conversation moving?

If 1-2 people are dominating the conversation use your best judgment of when to kindly interrupt and acknowledge their passion by saying something like, "Thank you so much for sharing your perspective. Given our limited time, I want to make sure we hear from others before we move on to the next question." Then, call on someone else who hasn't shared yet or move on to the next question.

If the whole group gets way off track and you're running out of time to answer the next question(s), you can politely say, "Sorry to interrupt, but just want to have a quick time check — I know a few of us have a hard stop at the end time, and we want to make sure we end on the final question. If we have time afterwards, I'd love to continue this conversation."

If there are guests who haven't shared yet and the group hasn't noticed, you can say something like, "Mary, I'd love to hear what you think about it, or what your experience has been."

What to do if someone says something that is completely false or something you strongly disagree with?

It's great that we live in a society that allows differences of opinions, and the best way to interject or encourage people to respond in a productive way is to say:

- I like what you said about ____ but I'm struggling with your statement about ____.
- I can see ____ but what about ____?
- My concern with that is ____
- I think we may have different ideas on how to ____
- I would like to understand. Can you tell me more about what you mean by ____?

What do I do if someone says something hurtful?

Explain how their statements affected you. Express your thoughts respectfully, using responses such as:

- When I hear that, I feel _____ because _____.

HOSTING AT WORK OR WITHIN AN ORGANIZATION

What do I do if someone mentions someone else by name who isn't at the table in a negative context?

Given the environment, if someone mentions someone by name where others might be able to identify them (and the subject is not a known celebrity, but a colleague or peer), try your best to interrupt by saying something like, "Thank you for sharing, however as the host I must ask that we not mention names of those who aren't here out of respect for everyone."

What do I do if someone tells a traumatic story that may require professional support?

It doesn't happen very often, but if someone feels safe to share a traumatic story or painful experience you can support them by acknowledging their bravery for sharing and recommend relevant support services (for example, phone lines and employee support organizations). Take care not to allow the group to probe the person for further information. It is important to end the conversation on a positive and supportive note if something like this is shared. The important thing is to show empathy while also taking care not to get into private matters. Do your best to keep the conversation on track and make sure to end on the uplifting final question.

RACIAL EQUITY

CONVERSATION GUIDE

Thank you for joining this Racial Equity conversation.

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. said, "I have a dream that one day this nation will rise up and live out the true meaning of its creed: 'We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal.'" Now, more than 50 years later, Dr King's dream has yet to be realized, as systemic racism endures in the United States. While some fight to transform the status quo, many struggle to accept the reality of racial injustice, and still others have become emboldened to publicly embrace white supremacy. This conversation confronts these issues and explores how we can achieve true equity for all.

GROUND RULES

Here are some ground rules to create a safe space for conversation:

BE CURIOUS AND WILLING TO LEARN

Conversation is as much about listening as it is about talking. Listen and be open to hearing all points of view. As you learn, try to sit with any discomfort and remember that it's okay to be wrong at times. Let's normalize changing our minds after listening to new perspectives.

BE MINDFUL AND SHOW RESPECT

Conversations encourage vulnerability. Be mindful of people's privacy and acknowledge their bravery. What is said here stays here, what is learned here leaves here.

LIVED EXPERIENCE

Be respectful of those with lived experience. Avoid tokenizing them or putting an undue burden on them by asking them to educate or explain. Let them take the lead with how much they want to share.

SUSPEND JUDGMENT AND ASSUMPTIONS

Setting judgments aside opens you up to learning from others and helps them feel respected and appreciated. Rather than making assumptions, listen and ask questions to better understand who another person is and where they are coming from.

BE AUTHENTIC AND WELCOME THAT FROM OTHERS

Speak authentically from your personal experience. Personal stories open our hearts. Look for common ground and appreciate the differences in the beliefs and opinions of others.

Conversation Guide

Introductions: Share your name, where you grew up, and one person who you consider to be a hero.
1 minute per person

Question 1: While equality seeks to promote fairness and justice, equity seeks to understand what different people need in order to enjoy full, healthy lives.<sup>1</sup> Equity is important because it acknowledges that not everyone is starting from the same place, or has the same needs.
2-3 minutes per person

Can you recall a moment when you first realized society isn't always just, impartial and fair to all races? Did you think you should do something about it? Did you feel you could do something about it?

Question 2: Consider the following:
3-4 minutes per person

- The typical White family has eight times the wealth of the typical Black family and five times the wealth of the typical Hispanic family.<sup>2</sup>
- The Covid mortality rate for Native Americans is almost twice that of white Americans.<sup>3</sup>
- Asian Americans continue to face discrimination in the workplace, with research showing they are the least likely group to be promoted to management.<sup>4</sup>

What are some past events or policies that have contributed to racial inequality in America? How are racial inequities maintained or amplified today?

Question 3: Anti-racism activist Tim Wise said, "If we don't figure out a way to create equity, real equity, of opportunity and access, to good schools, housing, health care, and decent paying jobs, we're not going to survive as a productive and healthy society."
3-4 minutes per person

What does real racial equity look like to you? What progress would you like to see this country achieve in your lifetime? And what's one thing you or your community can do to help make this vision come true?

What's next: Thank you for participating in this conversation and sharing your stories, values and vision. Next, you will receive a survey asking for your feedback and your thoughts on Racial Equity.

7/1/2021 20:08:36	[REDACTED]	Yes	Guest	White/Caucasian	Neutral	No	5	2	High/top priority	required as a commission member		The city/commission leadership would rather have us spend our time in dialogue than actually trying to address the systemic and structural problems that exist in Brookhaven	To continue to challenge the commission to engage in substantive work instead of performative conversations and self-congratulations	I would love to see the Mayor and City Council do a number of things 1) dramatically increase investments in affordable housing in the city. 2) disproportionately invest in businesses owned by People of Color, 3) establish Lynwood Park as a historic district and adopt policy that will prevent it from being gentrified and its residents pushed out by wealth and whiteness, 4) significantly reduce the size and budget of the police department and shift to a model of community-led safety.	No	I think all of the civic dinner meetings held at or catered by a restaurant should be required to be at a "minority-owned" restaurant

Ongoing SJREC Town Halls on topics 1-3 times a year, open to the public or web streamed.		Yes	Great restaurant choice and host.
7/9/2021 8:44:55	[REDACTED]	No	Guest	White/Caucasian	Excited	Yes	5	4	High/top priority	Wanted to meet people in the community. Always looking for a good conversation		How much work there is to go to change systems and cultural mindsets.	Continue to work for the commission, and provide opportunities and resources that can help individuals grow in consciousness.	I'm on the commission.	Yes	No.
7/29/2021 22:22:38	[REDACTED]	Yes	Host	White/Caucasian	Excited	Yes	5	4	High/top priority	Eager to see cities take action on racial equity		Social and legal systems promoting inequity include access to education, voting access, racial/ethnic segregation, financing/generational wealth, incarceration, language barriers.	Spread the word about joining our Civic Dinners, take small steps where you live and work to expand awareness of inequities, talk with those who may not understand that we have racist systems which promote inequity.		Yes
7/30/2021 11:22:09	[REDACTED]	Yes	Guest	White/Caucasian	Eager, perhaps with reservations	No	4	3	Significant priority	Always looking for a good conversation		In general, the understanding of the legacy of racial inequity is shallow.	Voter engagement	The city of Brookhaven's founding was based on a new segregation--geographic and economic. Not sure where to go from there.	Yes
7/30/2021 14:22:11	[REDACTED]	No	Host	White/Caucasian	Excited	Yes	4	3	Significant priority	Curious about the topic. Always looking for a good conversation, I'm finding that hearing other people's views on/experiences with race helps me develop greater understanding of this topic and what can be done to remedy racial inequities.		1. That conversations about race are bigger than just conversations about Black/White dynamics. 2. That there are extremists on both the Left and the Right but plenty of Moderates in the middle with whom we can have productive conversations where everyone listens to understand and is open to learning new things.	To learn more about my own racial biases.	Not at this time.	Yes	1. Tom Woodward was a wonderful host! 2. For people responding to this survey who are not from Brookhaven, it would be nice to have "Not applicable" (N/A) or "Don't Know" options on the questions specifically related to Brookhaven.
7/30/2021 16:04:05	[REDACTED]	Yes	Guest	Latino/a/x	Eager, perhaps with reservations	No	3	5	Significant priority	Wanted to meet people in the community		My own privilege, the empathy of my 2 neighbors	Engage in difficult conversations with others	No	Yes	It brought me closer together to my community and I networked with a neighbor to engage in a different group that discusses politics.

8/1/2021 15:48:54	[REDACTED]	Yes	Guest	African American/Black	Eager, perhaps with reservations	Yes	5	2	High/top priority	Eager to see cities take action on racial equity	4	Police need to get the name, phone number, and details of the "suspicious activity noted" from people who call to report "suspicious activity" on private property and make a determination of whether the caller might be racially profiling the "suspected criminal." A follow-up educational call needs to be made to the caller, if a reasonable investigation of the "suspicious activity" (one officer drive-by of the place where the "suspicious activity" is supposedly taking place, not carloads of officers) determines that the "suspected criminal" was racially profiled by the caller. Action needs to be taken to prevent much needed funds from being diverted from our public schools. Critical race theory needs to be taught in schools and Whites need to be educated on white privilege. More Whites need to openly speak out against racist policies and activities within their circles of relatives, friends, and associates (become antiracists).	I will continue to get into "good trouble" and engage in conversation with others who are committed to build the beloved community of which Dr. Martin L. King and John Lewis spoke.	Have regular social activities where neighbors are encouraged to share stories and get to know each other as fellow human beings	Yes	I enjoyed the honest exchange between the participants.
8/2/2021 10:58:59	[REDACTED]	Yes	Host	White/Caucasian	Reluctant	Yes	5	3	Significant priority	Wanted to learn more about Brookhaven's work in this area	4	There definitely is prejudice in Brookhaven-black people out in their yard or walking are considered "suspicious activity"; basically white people do not realize that black people are our neighbors and have a place in our community and what should be the response of the Brookhaven police--Do they need to send 3 or more police cars?; A good way to understand equality vs. equity--you give two people a stick to strike a pinatta. One person is tall and can reach the pinatta without difficulty, but a short person cannot reach the pinatta to strike it. Equality is you give each a stick to strike the pinatta; Equity is when you give the short person a stool to reach the pinatta to strike it	I am on the Police Accountability sub-committee. I would like to find out more about their response to calls of "Suspicious Activity". Do they do any follow-up with the neighbor who calls in the "Suspicious Activity" to educate the neighbor that blacks do live in our neighborhoods and can certainly walk our streets? How do they decide how many police cars to send? Any difference if white or black person involved? Brookhaven's policy on affordable housing --I will send this statement to participants	Reconsider affordable housing in Brookhaven, gentrification; equitable taxation to businesses moving into N. Druid Hills Rd area; Need to educate Brookhaven citizens regarding the presence and acceptance of our fellow neighbors of color; Continued training of Brookhaven police in handling various situations, particularly if there really is "suspicious activity" or just misguided Brookhaven neighbors and educating them regarding people of color in our city	Yes	Two persons did not make it to the gathering, Suzanne Ernst and Frank McClosky; Thank you to Inclusiv for making it pretty easy to do; thank you to Brookhaven Parks and Recreation for granting us free use of the Blackburn Park Pavilion. I thought it went pretty well.

Much work as individuals is yet to be done.	To stay engaged and seek other opportunities for similar discussions with neighbors.	Somehow provide constructive feedback to white people who call the police about Black neighbors walking in their own yards and neighborhoods. If victims are willing, share stories anonymously of racially motivated requests for police with entire community in Brookhaven newsletter.	Yes	It was a very powerful meeting. Grateful it was not just all white people at the discussion.

8/9/2021 20:38:29	[REDACTED]	Yes	Guest	White/Caucasian	Neutral	No	1	5	Not at all	Curious about the topic	1	Stop talking so much about race, it makes our differences a negative. Let us just coexist.	No	Don't spend so much of our tax dollars on these expensive dinners when you tell residents there is no money to fix Stormwater problems. Really bad optics.	No	Focusing on education is the best gift you leave behind. Encourage everyone to do the same. Education, not indoctrination, will relative the problems you perceive. This is the best country to live in, and we have made more progress with race relations than any other in the world. I'm proud of US.

Our team had divergent views and treated each other with respect. Honest communication was the key
8/9/2021 20:44:08	[REDACTED]	Yes	Guest	African American/Black	Eager, perhaps with reservations	Yes	5	2	Significant priority	Eager to see cities take action on racial equity	5	That some people are scared to express their full opinions and that might be because their lack of experiences with the issue at hand. But they've been open to hearing the conversation and that is a great start	I guess maybe try to engage in more meaningful conversations with strangers. But I will say that as a black women, sometimes it feels like I have to constantly explain racism to people is exhausting and draining. And creates some disassociation. Which is where my hesitancy to even come to the dinner came from.	Definitely more homebuilt incentives for minorities. The divide in Brookhaven is very noticeable and the housing prices definitely uphold the racial divide and wealth gap	Yes	It went way better than I thought and think this was a great setting for an open talk. It was a little loud in the room though

8/10/2021 15:05:45	[REDACTED]	Yes	Host	White/Caucasian	Excited	Yes	5	4 Significant priority		Eager to see cities take action on racial equity		Empathy for others' experience is key and informed by our own personal experience/exposure. We are born "innocent" and free of racism. Racism is learned or taught. We are continually learning about racist policies and systems. Role models (vs. say, media portrayal of racial stereotypes) are important to change harmful biases and behaviors. Generational struggles and stresses should be paid attention to, e.g., young people's concern/fear over their economic challenges, climate change, political polarization, etc. Universal healthcare including mental healthcare is a right. Housing is a right.	Continue the conversations.		Yes	We had a meaningful and memorable evening!
8/10/2021 16:17:25	[REDACTED]	Yes	Guest	White/Caucasian	Excited	No	5	3 Significant priority		Wanted to learn more about Brookhaven's work in this area		I started the Blackburn community garden in response to what happened in Ferguson about 8 or 9 years ago. I explained that it was my intention to bring folks together from different social economic, racial and cultural areas together to share with each other and get to know each other because I believe that people are just people and when you get to know them you can't just hate them. the more you can create opportunities for people to come together the better our entire country works. But you need to be able to her them talk to each other and share ideas. A park is a perfect location. Especially in a garden. The ladies liked this idea and knew about the garden. They were cynical about the city and I set them straight about some things. The person next to me , if she had the chance, and we could have heard her better, was trying to say 'well my white sister was pulled over by the cops and treated badly , so what is the big deal...' and I tried to say but she wasn't killed which is the difference and why a black boys parents have to tell him about what might happen to him. . I don't think it hit home with her and we needed to be able to talk it through and it was impossible.	The person who was given the script with questions at our table wasn't very good at staying on topic and we didn't get to all of the questions. She even skipped #1 and started with 2 and I had to get them back to #1. I don't think we got to a part where we discussed action stops . One lady did say after we all acknowledged that wrong and unfair things had happened, what could we do to change it or make it better. To which we all said I don't know and that was that. There just wasn't much diversity at my table and I didn't come away with any thing new.	The parks are not inclusive enough. There are folks on Buford Highway who would love to play soccer on the weekends but the Blackburn fields are locked because they are rented out to Concord so only kids whose families can afford to pay for their kids to play soccer will get to play there. We need to have city leagues and soccer for everyone. They used to play on the field by the large pavilion at Blackburn and that was taken from them. I was also told by a resident that we don't want a basketball hoop put up because that encouraged the wrong people to come . Actually this 71 year old white lady would love to have a place to shoot hoops like they have at Keswick park.	Yes	I think it could have been handled much better. The facilitators sat at their own table and talked to each other. I really felt like we were on our own. We didn't have a good mix of folks at our table and the conversation wasn't particularly illuminating. There was someone at our table that could have used some illuminating, but we couldn't hear each other talk. When they did this in Decatur years ago a facilitator sat at the table and lead the discussion in a room where everyone could hear each other. I was disappointed because this is a passion of mine. Thanks for the dinner.

8/10/2021 16:34:07	[REDACTED]	Yes	Guest	White/Caucasian	Excited		4	4	Significant priority	Always looking for a good conversation Eager to see cities take action on racial equity	4	Listen to understand. Building relationships with people eliminates subconscious fear.	Be more proactive on addressing behavior that is not supportive of others.	Became more sensitized to financial barriers that exist for many folks to get ID cards for voting. Having an initiative to help remove those barriers (individually and City funded) - including voluntary resources to help homeless get birth certificates, procure ID cards, etc. would seem to be something that all residents could embrace.	Yes	Host (Alyssa was great).

Wanted to learn more about Brookhaven's work in this area	4	Everyone has a story and we need to listen and be compassionate in order to learn about each other.	To continue to have conversations around race issues, no matter how uncomfortable, that educate and inform.	There's a very specific training course around "Whiteness" developed by Rev. Dr. David Alexander, of the Spiritual Living Center of Atlanta, that the commission might want to consider looking into.	Yes	A couple of tables needed more diversity. One was an all white table and 2 others were predominantly black. A little more mix-up. I commend the City of Brookhaven for such a gallant effort to bring communities together for the betterment of the City/metro community.

8/10/2021 17:23:47	[REDACTED]	No	Guest	American Indian, Latino/a/x	Excited	Yes	5	3	High/top priority		5	Residents of Brookhaven want to champion diversity and inclusivity. They understand the vibrancy of their neighborhood's demographic. They want equity.	I will continue to champion for Brookhaven and find collaborations that bring resources back to the community.	More inclusivity around language, having communication in more than just English. City council members being more engaged with the community. Utilizing city funding for resources needed in the community.	Yes	This event was a great and uplifting experience. My hope is that other municipalities will want to also adopt this concept.
8/10/2021 17:59:58	[REDACTED]	Yes	Guest	African American/Black	Excited	No	2	5	Low	Curious about the topic	1	There seemed to be more facilitators than actual guests making me wonder where are all the people concerned about racial equity in Brookhaven? Perhaps nobody sees a concern in this area?	I plan on running for the Brookhaven mayoral spot. We definitely need a change	Keep on doing exactly what you have been doing Brookhaven! This is almost welcoming area to visit and to live. Already diverse by nature. No need to try to find issues if they don't exist	Yes	It was nice to see how are tax dollars are being wasted

8/10/2021 21:23:45	[REDACTED]	Yes	Guest		Excited	No	5	3	Significant priority	Wanted to learn more about Brookhaven's work in this area	5	If people listen to each other respectfully and seek to understand, they will come to the realization that we're not at all that different.  We should use facts and do our own research vs. depending on tweets or news channels that spew rhetoric to define our opinions and beliefs.	I need to get more involved, represent my voice and listen.	Facilitating the conversation was a good first step towards addressing social injustice, race and equality. That said, these issues are systemic and have multiple layers which means that there isn't just one silver bullet to fix these problems. It will require many small actions and meaningful baby steps that collectively, can have a huge impact.  One suggestion is to start with the Mayor and the Council to ensure that they, too, have had the difficult and uncomfortable conversations with each other. They could even use a book like Unconscious Bias or Race Theory to help guide the conversation. Maybe take one chapter and discuss/dissect what it means and more importantly, commit to steps each will take in their personal and professional lives to help improve this cause. Asking the question - what will I personally do differently? It could be as simple as promising to speak up when around others who use racial slurs or use rhetoric to spur controversial chaos. Simply put, it starts with yourself. This helps ensure the sustainability of such projects or causes. If not, then it may just become the "flavor of the month".	Yes	First, I'd like to thank you again for hosting the event. I'd also like to acknowledge the City of Brookhaven for willing to be more inclusive and to listen; something we should not take for granted. That said, there were some participants whose behavior appeared to be unwilling to listen, and instead politicize issues. I found this to be very counter productive. I'm not at all suggesting that we should all share the same views but when you're completely unwilling to come up with ideas and have an open mind, there's no way to respectfully agree to disagree.  I would like to speak with someone from the committee to provide further context and examples.

I would like to know what can be done to make this happen.	No, I do not live in the Brookhaven area, therefore I do not have knowledge as to what the Brookhaven Mayor or City Council is doing.	No	Would have been better in a bigger restaurant and people spread out since we are still in COVID environment
8/11/2021 16:10:11	[REDACTED]	Yes	Guest	White/Caucasian	Neutral	No	3	5	Not at all	Curious about the topic, Wanted to meet people in the community, Always looking for a good conversation, Wanted to learn more about Brookhaven's work in this area	3	There was good and detailed civil discourse. A little concerned at the assumptions as to terms like 'equity'. Also concerned that there is a pre-determined ideology behind the topic questions.	A willingness to engage in more dialogue.	Please publish any findings to the public and or planned recommendations 3 weeks prior to presenting any findings or recommendations to the council.	Yes	It was well done.

More content should be published in Spanish.	Yes	The conversation was great but there is a desperate need to bring voices from different backgrounds to these events. Sometimes it feels as though there is too much agreement and not enough questioning because everyone present wants to embrace diversity in Brookhaven and recognizes that racial equity is an issue. We need to do something to hear from people who don't see it as an issue.

Highlights and Other Considerations:

- Those who might oppose prioritizing issues of racial equity may not have been as willing to engage with us
- Cultural and language barriers were problematic
- Covid 19 fear may have decreased engagement
- “Anti” forces organized to attend Civic Dinners to voice discontent
- Inclement weather/storms caused low attendance and rescheduling

Big kudos to Commissioner Pascual and Marcela Cortes for spanish translation support!

						Facilitating the conversation was a good first step towards addressing social injustice, race and equality. That said, these issues are systemic and have multiple layers which means that there isn't just one silver bullet to fix these problems. It will require many small actions and meaningful baby steps that collectively, can have a huge impact.
						One suggestion is to start with the Mayor and the Council to ensure that they, too, have had the difficult and uncomfortable conversations with each other. They could even use a book like Unconscious Bias or Race Theory to help guide the conversation. Maybe take one chapter and discuss/dissect what it means and more importantly, commit to steps each will take in their personal and professional lives to help improve this cause. Asking the question - what will I personally do differently? It could be as simple as promising to speak up when around others who use racial slurs or use rhetoric to spur controversial chaos. Simply put, it starts with yourself. This helps ensure the sustainability of such projects or causes. If not, then it may just became the "flavor of the month".

There are folks on Buford Highway who would love to play soccer on the weekends but the Blackburn fields are locked because they are rented out to Concord so only kids whose families can afford to pay for their kids to play soccer will get to play there. We need to have city leagues and soccer for everyone. They used to play on the field by the large pavilion at Blackburn and that was taken from them. I was also told by a resident that we don't want a basketball hoop put up because that encouraged the wrong people to come . Actually this 71 year old white lady would love to have a place to shoot hoops like they have at Keswick park.
